dered to take the whole wide avenue in their movements they would be likely to do it, and unless by some miraculous interposition of Providence the laws governing the impenetrability of matter should be suspended a clash would result between the cable cars and the horsemen. Happily, nothing of the kind happened.

The cavalry formed on the north side of 6th street and the avenue, and at the proper time moved westward across 7th street. No notice was given the cars to stop. The car company did not notify the cavalry to halt until the cars had passed. The "soger" boys just simply went ahead, and the cable gripman just naturally took off his grip and put on his brake. For two or three minutes Mr. Dunlop, if he had been there, would have seen the schedule suspended. The same thing happened a moment later, when the column crossed the tracks of the avenue line and proceeded along the south side of the thoroughfare. The cable cars banked up six or eight deep on each side of the point of crossing, both on 7th street and the avenue, and when the troops had passed they quickly got on into schedule position. At 15th street the usual choke was avoided by the column passing south and west of the Treasury building, and so all possible difficulty with the cars was avoided at that point. During the entire march the column kept south of the railway tracks, and seemed to have quite all the room necessary, and no accidents occurred. Meantime the crowds were being bowled along merrily, Arlingtonwards, with a speed and capacity that soon made the streets down town look deserted. This, considering the heat and dust, was a mercy to the countless numbers of women and children and old veterans who were out for the day. The sixth cavalry, Mr. Dunlop and the people of Washington are to be congratulated on the happy, balmily peaceful outcome of the affair.

THE CINDER TRACK

Interesting Cycle Races on Columbia

PRELIMINARY HEATS RON OFF

Some Crack Amateur Wheelmen Met This Morning.

FINALS THIS AFTERNOON

Columbia field, once well known to all

Washingtonians as Van Ness Park, was the Mecca of the local wheelmen today. It is located, it should be stated for the benefit of those who may never have been there at the southwest corner of the White Lot, and is fanned by the breezes from the river. Sometimes, when the wind is in a certain direction, the breezes come lazlly over the flats and are not so refreshing But all moving air was welcome today to the warm young men in knickerbockers who bent their backs over their handle bars and literally "scorched" their way along the wretched pavement of 17th street to the old-fashioned porter's lodge that still guards the entrance to the park. As early as 9 o'clock they began to arrive, young men on black wheels, red wheels, pink wheels, yellow wheels, silver wheels pink wheels, yellow wheels, silver wheels, copper-colored wheels—wheels of every sort and style, except the old style high wheels. A bicycle meet today is mightily different from such an event ten years ago, or even less than that. The stature of the machines—if the word may so be used—has shrunk. No longer are the sixty-inch uprights to be seen on the cinder track. No more are the desperate headers such a distinguishing feature of the wheelmen's distinguishing feature of the wheelmen's contest.

The event at Columbia field today was a a bicycle race meet of the new sort. It drew a large gathering of interested spectators, most of them bicyclists themselves, with all the zest and interest in the occasion that amateur sports feel.

The track is new and "green," in the language of the field. It is short and stout, to be diversity once more consists. The track is rew and "green," in the language of the field. It is short and stout, to be figurative once more, and consists principally of turns and banks. Owing to the shape of the lot, a long, compressed track, the best and safest for good racing, is impracticable. Workmen have been busy for some time getting the track in form, smoothing the turns and reducing the danger of an accident. It was feared that some over-zealous and careless wheelman might take a plunge from one of the high banks that are made necessary to preserve the natural angles and slopes required to prevent a rider from losing his line of gravity at the turns.

During the morning the track officials were busy getting the handicap stakes in position and putting the final touches on the surface of the track. The club house was filled with contestants, who were being rubbed down by their friends, and making the final preparations for the struggle for honors. The heat was intense, and it was not the best sort of bicycle weather.

For The Evening Star Medal. The first heat of the first race was run off at 9:50. This was the one-mile novice for The Evening Star gold medal. There were five riders assigned to this heat, but only three started, Geo. E. Smith, Washington Road Club; R. H. Wheeler, unattached, and H. M. Whittaker, Baltimore Athletic Club. The heat was won easily by Smith, with

The heat was won easily by Smith, with twenty yards to spare. Young Wheeler made a gallant fight for two laps, but Whittaker, who was holding his pace, pressed him on the third and passed to a place. Wheeler spurted on the last lap and lost a place in the finals by a bare yard. Time, 2.29.

The second heat was run by W. F. Fitzhugh, unattached; Wm. P. Walker, Arlington Wheelmen: Robert L. Regester. The second heat was run by W. F. Fitzhugh, unattached; Wm. P. Walker, Ariington Wheelmen; Robert L. Regester, Klester rushed to the front and overtook the leader at the tape, taking first place by half a length. The first three men qualified for the finals as follows: Klester, Fitzhugh and Regester. Time, 2.37 1-5.

This concluded the preliminary heats of the one-mile novice, and gave Smith, Whittaker, Fitzhugh, Regester and Klester the right to try for The Star medal in the final heat

The next event was the half-mile open, class A, for a banquet lamp and a cycle suit. The first heat was run by C. E. Wood, Washington Road Club; W. L. Eckhardt, Young Fellows' Cycle Club; F. A. L. Schade, Washington Road Club, and H. A. Rhine, Potomac Wheelmen.

It was a close bunch at the finish, with the three qualifying men almost together. Eckhardt won in 1.12, followed by Schade and Wood, both of whom thus became eligible for the finals.

The second heat was run by Claud Leatherbury, unattached; Jas. S. Joes, Clifton A. C., and Geo. E. Smith, W. R. C. Smith won nicely, though he came near losing his head at the southeast turn on the last lap. The second place was won by Leatherbury, who was hard-pressed by Joes. The time was 1.17. This left Smith, Leatherbury, Eckhardt, Schade and Wood for the finals.

Quarter-Mile Open.

The third race was a quarter-mile open. class A, for a gold medal offered by the Georgetown Cycle Club, and a cycle suit. The first heat brought out Claud Leatherbury, unattached; F. A. L. Schade, W. R. C., and Chas. T. Cabrera, C. A. C. Schade won by taking the southeast turn Schade won by taking the southeast turn very cleverly and so gaining several yards. He led by four yards at the finish, followed next by Leatherbury. Time, 37 1-5.

The second heat was run by J. S. Joes, Clifton A. C., and W. E. Ferguson, Y. M. C. A. Joes won by three yards, but both men qualified, as there was no competition. Time 38 2-5. Thus the finals of this race were to be settled by a heat between Schade, Leatherbury, Joes and Ferguson.

One-Mile Handicap. There were five heats of the one-mile handicap, class A, scheduled. The first heat was run by T. W. Hutchins, D. C. C., 40 yards; Geo. E. Ball, G. C. C., 70 yards; Thos. N. Mudd, jr., A. W., 80 yards; F. W. Cissell, unattached, 100 yards, and Bayard T. Wrenn, G. C. C., 40 yards.

The fourth and fifth heats were run together, with the following racers: Regester, 95 yards; Henisler, 70 yards; Leatherbury, scratch; Claggett, 50 yards; Parker, 70 yards; Eckhardt, 40 yards; Walker, 110 yards; Jacobs, 70 yards, and Bacon, 95 yards. Walker led until the last lap, when Eckhardt made a splendid push and won by two yards. Four men qualified—Eck-hardt, Bacon, Walker and Regester. Time, 2.20 2-5. One-Mile District Championship.

The one-mile District championship race came next, for The Evening News cup and the Parker, Bridget & Co.'s gold medal. The program contemplated two heats, but there were so few starters that it was thought that it would be better to ride the race in the afternoon in one heat. Consequently the event was postponed, and it will be run by Hutchins, D.C.C.; Pline, P.W.; Wood, W.R.C.; Cabrera, C. A.C.; Wrenn, G.C.C., and Smith, W.R.C.

The two-mile handicap, class A, trial heats, were next in order. The first heat was run by Wrenn, G.C.C., 70 yards; Charamus, B.A.C., 155 yards; Hutchins, D.C.C., 70 yards, and Whitaker, B.A.C., 150 yards,

The lap prizes are as follows: First lap, gold pin; second lap, cycle lamp; third lap, pair of silver cuff buttons; fourth lap, cycle pair of silver cuff buttons; fourth lap, cycle pin, The first heat brought out only three entries, Rhine, Ferguson and Charamus, and they were allowed to qualify without running. The second heat was handled in the same way, and Wren, Joes and Schade were qualified without a contest. Likewise the third heat gave Cabrera and Leatherbury chances in the finals without an effort, and this ended the morning's racing at 11:40 o'clock, when the meet was adjourned until 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. BATTED OUT VICTORY

The Senators Keep Up Their Repution for Decoration Day.

HASSAMER REPLACED COOGAN AT SHORT

But His Fielding Was Far Below

THEN BOYD TOOK A HAND

The bleachers were crowded, and many spectators occupied seats in the grand stand at National Park this morning when Umpire Keefe called "play" for the third game of the present series between Washington and Pittsburg. As usual, the home team went first to bat, the battery for the Pirates being Hawley and Kinslow.

Selbach, the initial batter for Washington popped up a fly back of short, which fell safe. Joyce flied one to second, and a moment later Selbach was caught napping. Hassamer hit safely, but the side was retired when McGuire forced him at second.

Washington took the field with Hassamer at short, Boyd in right field and Varney Anderson in the box. McGuire, as usual, appeared behind the bat.

Patsey Donovan waited for balls. Stenzel hit the first ball pitched into left field, but Selbach was there. Beckley retired on a grounder to second, Donovan taking second on the play. The latter was advanced one bag when Smith reached first on a grounder to Hassamer, which failed to reach first in time. In trying to catch Smith in stealing second Hassamer failed to hold the ball and Donovan crossed the plate. Bierbauer promptly pushed a double to left center, and Smith walked home with the second run. Clingman took first on balls, and the next batter, Cross, singled to left. Bierbauer scoring, Clingman taking third and Cross second in the play. Kinslow and the side was retired, Anderson to Cartwright. Score, Washington, 0; Pittsburg, S.

Stalwart Ed Cartwright opened the second inning by popping up a little fly to third, which Clingman misjudged, and Cartwright was safe, walking to second a moment later, when Boyd was given four balls. Both were advanced on Crooks' neat sacrifice. Abbey filed out and Cartwright scored the first run for Washington. Anderson made the third out by flying to Beckley.

Opened With a Double.

With a scratch two-base hit back of first Selbach opened the third inning. Joyce advanced him by sacrificing. Hassamer kept up the good work with a long fly into Stenzel's outstretched paws, permitting Selbach to score. McGuire was hit and Cartwright sent a corking single to center. Boyd forced Cartwright at second and three men were out.

For Pittsburg, Smith went out, Crooks to Cartwright, but Bierbauer trotted to first on a clean single to left, and four balls rewarded Clingman for patient waiting. Cross hit to short and Clingman was declared out on a close decision at second. clared out on a close decision at second, Bierbauer taking third and Cross soon after stealing second. Tom Kinslow ended the precarious state of affairs by driving the ball into Joyce's hands. Score, Wash-ington, 2; Pittsburg, 4.

Joyce's Home Run

Inning number four was inaugurated by Forty men constituted the drill team and they were marched on the space in front of the hotel at 6:20. A great deal Jack Crooks flying out to Donovan. Abbey did ditto to Smith, but Anderson improve of difficulty was experienced in getting sufficient space in which to drill, and the in such tactics by singling to center, and company was compelled to march around and force the crowd back several times in order to acquire the necessary room in which to maneuver. A short rest was given before the drill commenced, and then the order "attention" was given by Captain Shilling and the drill had begun.

next Selbach took first on balls. With two men on bases, Joyce occasioned a healthy substitute for pandemonium by scoring three runs and putting Washington in the lead with a home-run hit into the right field bleachers. Hassamer shoved the ball to Beckley and thereby retired the side. Hawley managed to get in a base hit at the opening of the inning for Pittsburg and he reached second and Donovan first on the latter's drive to Hassamer, which Bill threw poorly to first. Stenzel fouled out, but Beckley placed a single to right, on which Hawley scored. Smith also singled and Donovan reached home. Bierbauer reached first and Beckley scored on Hasse.

everything in the school of the company except set-up exercises was gone through with. The manual was executed at open ranks, and the manner in which the boys handled their pieces was something worth seeing. The movements were in quick and double, the two maneuvers which seemed to take the fancy of the audience being company right or left from a march and company halt from double time. Both of these were done with precision and in exact cadence, and the applause was deafening after each one had been completed. In the platoon movements the two lieutenants, Tralles and Robinson, showed that they knew exactly what they were doing, and, in fact, every man in the company knew just what was required of him at every command, and the result was clockwork precision in everything. which Hawley scored. Smith also singled and Donovan reached home. Bierbauer reached first and Beckiey scored on Hassamer's error of a batted ball. Clingman struck out and Cross got four balls, but Kinslow left the three men on bases by flying out to short. Score: Washington, 5; Pittsburg, 7.

For Washington, in the fifth inning, McGuire went out on a high fly to right, and Cartwright struck three times without result. Boyd made three out—second to first, Another single was the work of Hawley, but he and Donovan resumed seats on the bench when the latter sent a little one to Crooks, the double play being prettily executed. Stenzel went to first on balls, and took third on Buckley's single to right. The bases were filled when Smith received four bad balls, but no runs resulted, for Bierbauer went out to Selbach. Score: Washington, 5; Pittsburg, 7.

Anderson Surprised People. at every command, and the result was clockwork precision in everything.

The firing was somewhat ragged at first, but the last volley was all that could be required. When Capt. Shilling gave the command, "lie down," there was a general chorus of regrets, for every one knew that the white trousers would suffer from contact with the not-over-clean street. The company went down as one man, however, and the firing in that position was excellent. The drill lasted about an hour and the boys were pretty well worn out by the heat and exertion by the time it was finished. The crowd was exceedingly large and filled the space around the Ariington Hotel to overflowing. They were very liberal in their applause, and showed that they thought a great deal of their trim little soldier boys. Capt. Shilling was natured. Anderson Surprised People.

The next inning was opened by Crooks with a single to short, but Jack was forced at second by Abbey. Anderson surprised the spectators by making a two-base hit to left, putting Abbey on third. Selbach scored Abbey by sacrificing to Beckley, and Anderson tied the score, when Cross fum-bled Joyce's grounder. Bill went out in an endeavor to steal second. In Pittsburg's half Clingman got first on balls and Cross reached the initial bag on Hassamer's error. Kinslow hit to Joyce, who threw to the plate to catch Clingman, but McGuire failed to hold the ball, and the Pirate tallied. Hawley forced Kinslow at second, a double play being but narrowly averted. Cross scored on Donovan's scratch hit, which struck Anderson's shoe and rolled away. Hassamer again erred, this time on Stenzel's little bounder, and the bases were filled. Hawley crossed the plate on Beckley's sacrifice to far right, and then Crooks created great enthusiasm by then Crooks created great enthusiasm by retiring the side with a probably unprece-dented circus catch of a ball from Smith's wagon tongue. side and was knocked prostrate. He soon recovered, however, and the bases were filled with nobody out.

Anderson hit to third, forcing Boyd at the plate, but Selbach was equal to the occasion, and hit to center, scoring Crooks and Abbey. Joyce was also in the game, he attesting that fact with a double to right, in which Anderson crossed the rubber with the tying run. Hassamer redeemed his poor work at short by a clean hit to center and two more runs were jotted down in favor of the Schmelzites. To keep up with the procession McGuire sent a corker to left, on which Hassamer went to third. McGuire was caught between first and second, but clever base running prevented a put out. Mr. Cartwright next advanced to the bat and pushed the sphere past the pitcher and far into center field, Hassamer and McGuire going across the plate. A double play on Boyd and Cartwright finally retired the side, much to the relief of Pitcher Hawley.
